TOURING CAR

Is Purchased by Mr. Griffith and It is on the Way to the City.

William F. Griffith is in receipt of a telegram from the factory at Indianapolis informing him that his big National touring car has been shipped. The car is fully equipped for family use and Mr. Griffith intends to use it exclusively as such. He will also keep the fine racer he has now of that make. It is the intention to make the trip to Atlantic City, in the big touring car, when the Elks' reunion is held there. Caldwell Hunter, vice president of Brown-Forman Company, and his wife will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Griffith on the trip. Mr. Griffith was the first here to own a National car and he holds to that machine as a favorite, which fact highly recommends the make here.
